BRAD KLAVER

As the Coaching Director at Winning at Home, Brad serves individuals and families through coaching, writing and speaking.

Brad's deep gladness is to communicate and invite people to come and see just how good the good news of Jesus really is—something the world is hungry to hear and know. His passion to share of God's dignifying and healing love comes out of his own story of brokenness and encounter with Jesus in the midst of it. Brad speaks and shares openly, often from his own journey and life experience, in hope that others will experience and know the truth of who God is and how he has made each and every person with purpose, on purpose and for a purpose.

Brad's mission is to encourage and equip individuals, families and organizations with a gospel-centered approach for how to address some of the most challenging topics of our day. Brad's down to earth communication style and commitment to walking the line of grace and truth has helped hundreds of individuals and families navigate conversations surrounding areas of life including identity, culture, sexuality and gender. Brad desires to see the Church encouraged and equipped to engage the conversations in this cultural moment with both truth and love.

Additionally, Brad speaks to leaders and teams about the importance of maintaining healthy personal wellness, rhythms and habits that lead to healthy relationships and organizations.

He and his wife, Michelle, have four children and reside in West Michigan.
